INDUSTRY EDUCATION RECRUITMENT FUNDING

Purpose

The Industry Education Recruitment Fund supports student recruitment at colleges and universities that encourage careers in the poultry industry. Any institution of higher education in the United States that offers an identifiable poultry program or can show plausible ways of connecting students with the poultry industry is eligible to apply for a recruitment grant of up to $7,000. If your school offers a poultry science minor, you may be eligible for up to $3,000 in additional funding, pending Board approval.

Procedures for Applying for Recruitment Grants

Institutions may apply for this recruiting gift by completing the form and submitting via email to bjenkins@uspoultry.org or via hard mail to the USPOULTRY Foundation by August 15, close of business. Please try to be as specific as possible in completing this form. The funds may not be used for scholarship or direct stipends to students. A committee of university professionals will review funding requests and make recommendations to the Foundation Board of Directors. The number of proposals accepted each year varies depending on need.
